

Lone Wolf and SentiLock Announce Strategic Partnership to Deliver Value Solutions to Real Estate Professionals

CAMBRIDGE, ON – Lone Wolf Real Estate Technologies, the North American leader for real estate software solutions, has strategically partnered with SentiLock, the number-one rated provider of electronic lockbox systems to the real estate industry to add further value for brokers and sales representatives using Lone Wolf's WOLFconnect platform.

Lone Wolf's WOLFconnect extranet platform is now capable of managing the SentiLock System and lockboxes. Users of both platforms will be able to assign lockboxes to listings, generate SentiLock's industry exclusive 1 Day Codes for property showings, as well as retrieve access reports for properties. The ability to perform these functions from the WOLFconnect extranet platform streamlines all lockbox tasks which results in saving sales representatives precious time, and it alleviates much of the workload of their office administrators.

"Lone Wolf is thrilled to integrate the SentiLock brand and automated lockbox offering into our WOLFconnect extranet system. This partnership brings added value to our customers and, along with the current innovative functionality of our platform, provides real estate professionals a single point of access to be able to manage and run their businesses efficiently," says Des O'Kelly, Executive Vice President of Lone Wolf Real Estate Technologies.

"We are extremely pleased to add even more functionality to our previous integration with Lone Wolf, which was primarily based upon our 1 Day Code feature in order to schedule property showings. The new additional integration features implemented by Lone Wolf is for sure a win-win situation for both companies, but the real winners in our strategic partnership are our shared customers. The ability for our customers to perform lockbox administration tasks and reporting from within the WOLFconnect extranet platform reduces training requirements, saves time, and makes brokers, sales representatives, and office administrators more proficient in their day to day duties. In today's market conditions, this is more important than ever," comments Brent Borel, Manager of Strategic Alliances for SentiLock.
